FROM WASHINGTON.

THE GRAND HAIL WELCOME TO CONGRESS. Washington, Dec. 3.—The welcome to Republican members of Congress came off this evening, and was a success in all respects. The procession was formed opposite the City Hall, and commenced moving at 8, preceded by a squad of mounted police, who were greeted with hearty cheers as they passed. The procession was headed by Sherburd and his staff, dressed in black, white, on the left, and Mr. Wilkinson, colored, on the right. The Odd Fellows and Masons, of Washington, followed, carrying a banner inscribed "Welcome to the Loyal Men of the American Sea" Associations with the wounded soldiers and sailors followed in carriages. The colored brass band followed next, preceding the Republican Association of the District of Columbia, composed of about one hundred citizens, carrying torches. The procession then moved to the residence of Thaddeus Stevens, where a band of brass band preceding a company of colored soldiers, with guns and banners, with drums beating, marched to the residence of Secretary Seward, where a halt was made in honor of the rebellion, in which the colored soldiers participated. The procession then moved to the residence of Secretary Stanton, preceded by a company of colored people, with several brass bands, and military police on foot flanked either side of the procession.

The halt was about a quarter of a mile in front of the residence of Secretary Stanton, where thousands of colored people flocked there to see what was going on. Secretary Stanton, however, was not at home, but he did not appear on the premises.

The following is Judge Carter's address of welcome:

GENTLEMEN.—It is made my pleasure and duty, by the unanimous invitation of the Loyal Men under their various organizations, to tender a welcome to the United Members of the Thirty-Ninth Congress. In their name I now welcome each one and all, to their hospitality. The welcome is given as an expression of respect for your wisdom and patriotism as statesmen, law-makers, and as citizens. Especially legislators of this District, I believe all honor to the nation's defenders in the field, and without reflecting upon the other branches of the Government or the fidelity of the distinguished fraternities who occupy the seats of executive and judicial power, and with no disposition to flatter, we rest the greatest confidence in the wisdom and patriotism of the Thirty-Ninth Congress. A nation saved from the grasp of treason by the valor of its soldiers and sailors, and the wisdom and patriotism of European Powers saved from the influence of European bad; saved from the influence of European bad; saved from slavery; a nation saved from the grasp of treason by the valor of its soldiers and sailors, and the wisdom and patriotism of its statesmen, and saved to all its liberties at home, to be and continue the asylum of liberty for the oppressed of all nations, and transformed in the embrace of nations, by the wisdom of its statesmen, and the patriotism of its people, from an overshadowed and paramount power. These results, gentlemen, are the glorious work of the Thirty-Ninth Congress, and the Thirty-Ninth Congress, and the Thirty-Ninth Congress, and

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, December 3, 1866.

In conformity with the requirements of law, I respectfully submit to Congress the annual report of the finances.

The fiscal year ended on the 30th of June; but, as the business of the several departments of the Government for the latter portion of the year could not be fully exhibited in a report made at that date, the present time was chosen for the first annual report. The results will widely differ. The receipts exceed the estimates, and the expenditures are less than the estimates. The former, however, fall short of the corresponding receipts of the previous year, while the latter exceed the expenditures of the previous year. The cause of the deficiency in the receipts is found in the reduction of taxation, and the cause of the increase of expenditures is found in the payment of the principal of the public debt.

MANHOOD:

How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHŒA, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Emissions, Impediments to Marriage, Nervousness, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, resulting from Self-Abuse, &c.

In a sealed envelope, price six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, on receipt of six cents or two postage stamps.

A Fifth Letter says: "The number in the Chamber of Deputies who have declared in favor of the Constitutional Reforms, and who support the general system of the Government, is 221. The number who voted against the Ministry on the last vote of confidence was 214. The majority is therefore only seven. This is a very small majority for the support of the Government, and the Ministry will be compelled to resign unless they can increase it. The Ministry will probably endeavor to increase the majority at the next election by the creation of new peerages as a means of reconciling the opposition."

Love, Despair, Suicide.

The Oskaloosa Herald gives the following particulars of a melancholy case already recorded in our columns:

On Saturday last a man named James Ferguson, who lived with his family in the house of Norman Horne, 8 miles north of Oskaloosa, Mahaska County, Iowa, hanged himself. He had married an old friend, Mr. Auchaugh, and attended divine service on Sunday morning. During the day he had spoken freely about his affairs. His wife, with whom Fergy relied was wandering on Monday, sought for a child and found the unfortunate result when he parted with him last. On Monday morning Fergy did not come down to breakfast. Mr. Horne went up to see if he was sick, and found him hanging dead. An inquest was held by Squire Hall, of Oskaloosa, at 11:30 a. m. when the first witness was examined. The jury then rendered a verdict in accordance with the above facts. He left no notes upon the subject in mind. The following is as follows:

OBSERVATIONS, Sunday noon.

No intention was to die and not write anything about it. Mr. Horne would think it crime or disposition caused me to do it. Mr. Horne has been a friend to me and I wished to be buried by his side. Mr. Horne was always ready to assist me when I was in trouble

J. V. HATHAWAY.....LESSEE AND MANAGER.

Engagement for a limited number of nights only, of the distinguished Tragedian,

LUCILLE WESTERN,

Supported by her own Company, including

LADY ISABEL and MADAM VINE,

In C. W. Taylor's original drama,

EAST LYNNE; OR, THE ELOPEMENT,

Dramatized by Mrs. H. WOOD, from the celebrated novel of that name.

EAST LYNNE has achieved a complete success wherever presented by MISS WESTERN, and has in all instances drawn crowded houses.

NEARLY 1,000 TIMES,

To the most fashionable and appreciative audiences ever assembled by any dramatic combination, the scene of the performance being

THE LARGEST AUDITORIUM EVER CONGREGATED

By her incomparable impersonation of the characters of

LADY ISABEL and MADAM VINE,

Than she accounts make for her play the opposite it has achieved; while

TRADE AND SONS,

And other signs of

EMOTIONAL SYMPATHY,

Evoked from overflowing audiences, attest the

TRUE MORALITY OF THE PLAY,

ITS WONDERFUL DOMESTIC PICTURES—ITS CORRECT DRAWINGS OF SOCIETY,

THE TORTURES OF A JEALOUS MIND—THE PERNICIOUS INFLUENCES OF CONJUGAL DISSENSION—THE PLEASURES OF A HAPPY HOME—THE MISERY OF SEPARATION,

THE STRENGTH OF WOMAN'S LOVE UNDER TRIAL, THE VACILLATIONS OF LIFE, and

THE TERRORS OF DEATH,

As successfully presented by the talented Star, to thousands of delighted auditors.

This Play has doubtless done more actual good to the community than any other ever before played on the stage, and other Cities have been placed in the category of the Drama's Benefactors. Its influence is not confined to the Theatre, but is felt in every part of the metropolis, in the Counting House, the Parlor, the Kitchen, the Nursery, and the Street. Its lessons are universal, and its moral is the best that can be taught to the human family.

Admission, $1.00; Reserved Seats, $1.50; Family Circle, 75 cents; Gallery, 50 cents. Reserved Seats for sale at the Box Office of the Theatre during the day.

Doors open at 7½ o'clock. Performance commences at 8 o'clock.
